ment as indicating the Democrats might not offer a candidate should Norris decide to seek re-election.

It was believed generally the 74-year-old veteran's name would be on the ballots when the polls open next year. It was pointed out he frequently has indicated a desire to return to private life but always has been dissuaded by friends.

Although Norris probably would not give complete support to the New Deal, he would be unlikely to oppose Mr. Roosevelt's campaign for re-election. Word from Norris that he would vote for the president would add considerable strength to the New Deal's chances of winning independent Republican support for a second time.

Sayings Of Will Rogers

Now let's get this Florida and California thing settled. Hotels even. Both have wonderful ones.

People even. Both equally windy.

Distance from civilization, even. Tennis, California; horseshoe pitching, Florida.

Desert and mountains, California; lakes Florida.

Bathing, Florida wins. We take to the tub about October.

Millions of visitors, even. None either place. That's a race of people that has been entirely exterminated by bad judgment.

Florida excels in fish and Democrats. Outside of Catalina Island and we can't touch you on fishing.

So if you like to fish and look at Democrats, Florida is your on.

But you've got to come to California to see the movie stars.

Don't worry about the Japanese flying over here in case of war, those birds will swim over.

In Porto Rico I read in a newspaper that I went to the West Indies to buy polo ponies. That must have handed my banker a laugh. I thank somebody for the compliment.

Old age and the depression hit my polo the same year. The type of polo I have always played, I could get my horses off a merry-go-round. Besides, if I wanted good horses I would never leave America for 'em, and if they will let 'em race in every state, we will have better ones everywhere.

Both officers returned here at 7 a. m. today from Florida with the two prisoners they sought. The men are in jail in Tampa, awaiting a hearing before the supreme court there, following their fight against extradition to California on bunco charges.

Sheriff Logan Jackson said today that arrangements were being made with the state's attorney in Tampa to represent Orange county at the hearing, which has been set for December 2, and more officers will not be sent to Florida for the men unless the men are surrendered after the hearing. He said the federal government also was interested in the prisoners, investigating them in connection with a charge of using the mails to defraud. This angle might work against the prisoners being returned to this city, it was said.

No charges were ever filed against the Orange county officers there, but they were threatened with arrest for kidnapping if they attempted to take the prisoners out of the state of Florida, Zabel said.

Health Lectures To be Given for Santa Ana Women

A series of women's health lectures by Dr. Hazel Rogalsky Kansas City, will open Monday at the Santa Ana hotel, Sixth and Main streets, under the sponsorship of Wright's Health Food center. The series, to be given at 2 and 8 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will be for women only.

Dr. Rogalsky will conduct the lectures on an educational basis, dealing with the personal and home problems of every woman. The series will consider problems of hygiene and health building, predicated, according to Dr. Rogalsky, on the belief that the health of the mother in the home is the first essential in the security of that home.

Dr. Rogalsky said today: "Rejuvenation is constantly going on in the body, but we do not know how to direct it. Nor do we realize the importance of keeping that body clean. There are a few vital facts which have never been told, and in these facts lie the success or failure, youth or premature old age."

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 16.—A second public hearing on protests against the proposed master zoning ordinance for Newport Beach will be held November 29 at the city hall. Kenneth Sampson, state planning commission member, will be on hand to interpret provisions of the ordinance.

Few protests were heard when the first public meeting was held Thursday night. L. Deming Tillson, planning expert, and Sampson explained the ordinance.

The ordinance is the result of two years' study by a citizens' planning commission, headed by H. L. Parks. The ordinance definitely allocates business and residential districts, lines, but contains no provisions as to how much should be spent on a home, and does not affect established businesses. Height of buildings will be dependent on the width of the streets before them.

WAITING

A period of governmental quiet-ude is considered advisable by all

New Deal factions. Liberals want to consolidate their gains. Conservatives believe it will be helpful to business, and to politics.

Nevertheless, the nature and extent of it are highly doubtful in view of pending supreme court decisions, which may or may not knock out half of the New Deal;

the forthcoming Dec. 9 NRA conference, the coming SEC difficulties with the holding companies.

The period, therefore, is one of waiting for incubation, rather than anything else. It apparently will be emphasized by a sincere effort to bring the budget nearer to reason. But little can be done to assure an early balance, nor is here likely to be any fundamental werve toward other than the well known objectives.

You might say they are moving

Mr. Roper and his tuba down to be front row, relegating the "tubero" players to the back, while everybody waits.

LYING SQUADRON

The government apparently has developed something new in jurisprudence - a flying squadron of lawyers to meet the legal rush

on the New Deal. The White House has been moving its best legal men quietly from one department to another from time to time lately.

Latest move was that of Jerome

Frank from his RFC post to work on some particular PWA cases involving power. Also labor sollicitor Charles Wyzanski has been departed from Miss Perkins and joined the Justice Department.

A few weeks earlier, Messrs.

Cohen and Corcoran were "borrowed" by the D. of J. to take charge of the Wilmington Holding companies case.

The Justice Department still earlier obtained John Dickinson

from the Commerce Department.

Stanley Reed and Paul Freund

from RFC.

PRO-CONS

A group of important radio

lawyers was discussing the AAA

the other day. They were saying what a questionable policy it was,

and at the same time agreeing on how much it has done lately

for their business. Most of them attributed the Government benefit payments the recent strong increase of radio sales, and even the increased price of radio stocks in Wall Street. Unanimously they decided it was a bad thing, but they were for it.

HOPES

The Yankee traders have been pepped up considerably by the Canadian Trade Agreement. They are talking sotto voce about prospects of early agreements with

Spain, Holland, France. Also even

Mexico. Treaties with Brazil and Colombia are near ratification.

The backstage workers also see the ultimate prospects of a treaty with Britain. No negotiations have been attempted yet, even in a preliminary way. Difficulties are serious in the case of France and Mexico, but there may be developments soon on Spain and Holland.

The realization of these hopes will require months, if not years.

Also, it would mean a rather substantial revision of the U. S.

Tariff.

COOPERATION

The real reason that the Canadian Treaty was concluded so early was that the Canadians were eager for it. When Mr.

Bennett was Premier, he sent some emissaries to talk down some business with the inside here that the Canadians

did not then have their hearts in their work. The recent emissaries of Premier King really wanted a treaty, and got it.

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

SELLING

Uncle Sam's official salesmen

aren't advertising their trade secrets these days. But foxes Dan

Roper hopes to win back South

American markets while European competitors are engaged in staving off another World War.

The recent South American aviation mission to this country was the tip-off to future trade trends. Of late years European nations have been swallowing up the aviation market in South America. Despite Pan-American

subsidized flights, Great Britain and France have been outstripping the United States in selling airplanes, accessories and landing

field equipment below the Panama

Canal. So Mr. Roper invited South

American civil aviation officials to travel over our airlines and see for themselves that they excelled Europe's. It was done unobtrusively but that was the chief purpose of the visit.

Mr. Roper thinks the stunt succeeded. Now he has proposed privately to the President that the United States send delegations of American business men to South American countries. He wants them to go as salesmen, not as Americans seeking to exploit the Americans. He has offered to send along some of his trade experts. The President likes the idea.

TACTICS

Canny Dan sees a chance to drive a wedge between Big Business and small industries in the important year of 1936. He has impressed the President with the possibilities of digging up new markets for small manufacturers

below the Panama Canal.

The international situation favors Mr. Roper. Neutralty embargoes and turbulent economic conditions in Europe jeopardize the reduction of the possibilities of commerce in that direction. There he must bow to Secretary Hull, who is directing the diplomatic than take a chance on unsettling

the bond market by unloading government securities. There's no guarantee that the new Reserve

Board will heed their counsel - but New York bankers figure it can hardly ignore them entirely.

However, no steps to halt inflation will be taken in the near future. Federal Reserve Chairman

Marriner Eccles wants credit to show real expansion before its wings are clipped - and for the present at least his word is law

in Federal Reserve circles.

READY

Financial sharps predict a change in the general character of security offerings in the near future. Inside estimates show that over two-thirds of all high grade bonds that could legally be issued for redemption have already been refunded. Into new issues with cheaper coupons. It's figured that $750,000,000 out of a possible

$1,175,000,000 of top-flight refunding has been completed since spring of this year.

CENTRALIZED

The rising trend of commodity

prices is giving big manufacturers

a decided edge over small competitors. Where the little fellows are forced to buy hand-to-mouth

because of restricted working capital, large corporations can take care of their raw material requirements well into the future - and are in fact doing so.

This means that big companies will be safely hedged against further price increases for quite a while and will be able in turn to protect their customers

by holding their own prices down.

Small concerns - forced to pay more and more for new materials

as the trend continues - will have to charge more for their products as a matter of self-preservation and thus incur a competitive disadvantage.

Shrewd New York observers force a gradual process of elimination for small companies and upbuilding of the bigger units.

The flexibility that size affords is a tremendous asset in the struggle to survive. Keen analysts believe this tendency may lead in time to further centralization of industry in strong hands and perhaps to regional marketing

setups that would cut out a lot of wasteful and uneconomic competition.

EMBARGO

In spite of mild denials by Secretary Hull, the situation strongly indicates that President Roosevelt will extend the embargo to materials needed in war. He has somewhat elastic authority under the neutrality resolution, which permits him to define "implements

of war."

HEARTLESS

New York learns that confidential questionnaires from TVA

asking for information about jobseekers include this question: "To what extent is he motivated by professional ethics and considerations of the public good, rather than by the desire for personal profit?" (But the law forbids a federal official to work for nothing.) In its covering letter TVA says: "We request that you help protect this project from mediocrity."

RISK

The Italians are finding it harder and harder to do business over here. Recently an American manufacturer (not of "war implements") was offered a large order

by the Italian government itself on condition that he would accept 20 per cent cash in advance and the balance upon delivery of the goods in Italy.

The manufacturer was not in a position to finance the order on those terms even if he had wanted to. So he approached several important financial sources with the proposition that they should advance him the 20 per cent balance - less a substantial discount - and collect from the Italian government when the goods arrived. In every case his proposals was turned down cold as too big a risk.

HARRY GRAYSON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 14.—The great majority of football men and followers never heard of Harry Grayson until he arrived at Ohio State last year, but it didn't take him long to gain their respect and confidence.

Schmidt, 200 pounds of nervous energy from Texas Christian, caught the popular fancy, not only with his wins, but with his explosive manner, plain-spoken personality, and brilliant wit.

The Ohio State faculty had a little difficulty getting used to Schmidt's virile, big-man language at first, but quickly accepted him as the campus' leading figure. He probably is the most popular coach ever to hit Columbus. Players and students consider him the last word in coaches.

Because his clubs manufacture tremendous scores against comparatively weak opposition, the Ohio State strategist has been tagged "Marshall." He is very human, nevertheless, and his players love him.

Schmidt curses his boys plenty, but they love it. They'd rather be cussed than complimented by him. The athlete who gets hauled out the most has a good chance of starting the game.

Schmidt gets along well with newspapermen, but they've learned to keep a tongue in their cheek when listening to him. He's apt to change his mind from one hour to the next. Called by telephone to give a starting lineup for an official program, Schmidt named 10 men.

For awhile, Mrs. Schmidt forbade the Ohio State mentor to drive the family car. There was danger of him wrapping himself and his around a telephone pole while juggling down a new play in an ever-present notebook.

18 HOURS A DAY

Schmidt, a driver from away back who works 18 hours a day, continually thinks and talks football. He usually works in his office in his shirt sleeves. He welcomes visitors, but even though he's met them time and time again, he doesn't remember their names.

Schmidt has pet names for most of his boys, such as Bobo, Boco, Leatherhead, and Old Can. He never runs out of nicknames or wisecracks.

He refuses to wear a top-coat while sitting on the bench during a game. He claims he never notices the cold during the heat of battle.

Schmidt whistles shrilly to attract the boys' attention on the practice field. Although his style of play is as wide open as the Texas plains, where his teams formerly roamed, he has a mania to "keep the ball on the ground, dammit!"

Schmidt usually forgets appointments.

A born salesman and after-dinner speaker, Schmidt could hire out to speak every night of the week throughout the year.

His age seems to be a delicate subject with Schmidt, but he's 49 or 50. He was a star halfback at Nebraska in 1904 and '05. He was graduated from the law school there, but does not practice. He wears only bow ties.

BASKET KNOWLEDGE ASSET

Schmidt's first coaching assignment of any importance was at the University of Tulsa, where he lost one game in the last four seasons of a five-year reign before and after the war.

He left Tulsa for Arkansas, where he had the reputation of getting the most out of his material for seven campaigns.

With less talent than larger rivals, Schmidt won two Southwest conference championships, tied for the title once, and finished second and third in five years at Texas Christian.

The headman of the Buckeyes has been even more successful in basketball than he has in football.

Football going basketball was right down Schmidt's alley. His hoop game knowledge no doubt played a big part in his developing, in less than two seasons, the finest set of ball handlers that such veteran and skillful exponents of the razzle dazzle as Bob Zuppke and Bo McMillin ever saw.

The huge stadium at Columbus demanded a show. Schmidt gave Ohio State one, and a mighty football machine as well.

Undefeated in conference competition since the afternoon of October 13, 1935, Anaheim High school's all-conquering football team will risk its Orange County league championship next Friday in a playoff with Brea-Clinda in the neutral Fullerton Junior college stadium at 2:15 p. m.

Anaheim and Brea-Clinda both completed their regular schedules without defeat yesterday. The Colonists tossed two touchdowns passes to beat a stubborn Orange eleven, 14-0, and Brea-Clinda cackwalked to victory over little Laguna Beach, 26-0.

As expected, the "fired up" Orangemen gave Anaheim a desperate fight. They actually out-gained the champions, making eight first downs to six, but succumbed because their secondary relaxed twice on enemy pass plays.

The first touchdown came in near the end of the second quarter. An Orange pass that hit an ineligible lineman gave Anaheim the ball on Anaheim's 42 despite violent protests of the Panthers. Wally Fee passed 20 yards to Nolan Beat, who made a diving catch. Fee made four yards. Harry Tanaka two. Fee then took a reverse from Doherty and fired another strike to Beat, who caught the ball on Orange's 14 and scampered across to a touchdown. Beat then kicked goal.

Anaheim's second score developed in the third period. Fee passed 28 yards to Beat who lateraled to Fullback Schwartz just as he was tackled. Schwartz running the rest of the way to the goal. The entire gain totaled 55 yards.

This was Anaheim's fifteenth consecutive Orange league victory. After losing to Brea in 1933 in a game that cost Anaheim the title, the Colonists won four in a row. Last year they took six in succession. The 1935 string now has reached five.

Brea-Clinda had easier sailing against Laguna Beach although "Red" Guyer's Artists gave ground grudgingly. Halfback LeRoy Laling ran 30 yards for Brea's first touchdown and carried the ball across for the extra point. He scored again in the second and third periods, climaxing sustained drives into Laguna territory. Brea made the Wildcats' final touchdown, hitting off-tackle for seven yards.

The Huntington Beach Oilers clinched their season by defeating Garden Grove 15 to 13, at Huntington Beach. Both teams scored a pair of touchdowns, but a field goal from the 9-yard line by Duane Musolf in the first period swung the battle in the Oilers' favor.

Beat completed a 25-yard pass from Troop and lateraled to Murrin for the first score. A few minutes later Musolf kicked his field goal. Lehnhardt scored from the 5-yard line for Garden Grove after Cobb had passed to Reynolds for a 10-yard gain. Troop smashed over from the 3-yard line for the Oilers in the third period, and Lehnhardt went over in the fourth quarter after Garden Grove had been given the ball on the 1-yard line following interference with a pass receiver.

ABOUT BABIES AND ONE OR TWO OTHER THINGS

Coach Bill Foote's little son, a chance in the farm system of the Cincinnati Reds who are currently giving young blood the test at San Bernardino. Charley Friend and Jesse Canchola of the Santa Anita team have been in camp and the Reds may sign Canchola a pitcher.

Relating that the bundle from heaven at the Bill Cook's was another lady, I forgot for the moment that Coach and Mrs. Foote's son was a boy, not a girl. Sorry, Bill. No offense was meant, as you well know.

Just a few of our athletic celebrities who've produced girls of late are Floyd "Arky" Vaughan, Jim Musick, Bill Cook, Evelyn Furtch Ojeda, Dick Mexico, Ernie Johnson, "Jeff" Cravath, George Baker, Red Ballard and Kenneth Ranney, not to mention the good little guy down the hall who thinks he can lick me at tennis, Wayne Moon. The national fashion, of course, was set by Jack Dempsey.

So I repeat: athletes get girls as a rule. That's why I predict it will be Edmund Jr., instead of Cary Louise, when the Wests take in a partner early next year.

Scouting for youthful material, the St. Louis Cardinals conducted a two-week training camp in Fullerton for players between the ages of 17 and 23. Ostensibly the program was run by Springfield, one of the St. Louis "chain-stores," but everybody knew this was a blind to beat one of organized baseball's rules on territorial rights. Los Angeles had secretly complained to Commissioner Landis.

Cardinal scouts discovered at Fullerton only three youngsters who appeared capable of making the grade in professional ball. One of these was a Santa Ana, Clarence "Snooky" Harris, 18, of 318 Wisteria place.

Harris, a left-handed first baseman, moved here from Pasadena last spring. He is a nice looking kid, is deadly serious about baseball. He reports to the Cards' club at Greensboro, N. C. in May.

TUSTIN DEFEATED BY HARBOR SQUAD, 13-0

Under a steam roller attack, paced by Captain Al Irwin, Newport Harbor high school's football team trounced Tustin, 13 to 0, at Newport Heights yesterday.

Although the fighting Tustin squad staved off two Harbor touchdowns threats on the 5 and 4 yard lines respectively, Newport's powerful smashes, combined with reverses around end, gradually wore down the Farmers' forward wall.

The Sailors' initial touchdown came early in the second quarter. On a reverse around end, Griffin, Harbor halfback, starting from the Tiller 35-yard line, advanced the leather to the 22 before he was finally dropped. Irwin earned 11 more on a delayed buck over guard which caught the Farmers napping. After another smash by Irwin, Griffin scored from the 9 yard line. A drive by Irwin over his own right guard, netted the extra point.

Harbor's second tally arrived in the fourth period. After recovering a Tustin fumble on the latter's 20 yard line, Langmade passed to Al Irwin on the Farmers' 10. Irwin found a hole in the left side of his line and proceeded to the 5 yard stripe. Pearce gained 4 more, then drove over for a touchdown. A shovel-pass from Irwin to Langmade behind the line of scrimmage failed by inches of adding the extra point.

WALLACE WADE SAYS CAROLINA NATIONAL'S BEST

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 16.—If the Tar Heels of North Carolina happen to be the Rose Bowl choice, the football customers of California will see a team the equal of any ever to represent the South in the New Year's Day classic, and one which is capable of holding its own anytime anywhere.

That's the opinion of Wallace Wade, and he is in a fine position to know the strength of the Carolinians. As coach of the Duke outfit which plays the Tar Heels here today in one of the country's top games, he has made it his business to study them from every angle. Furthermore, when Wade speaks of the Rose Bowl he speaks with authority, for before coming to Duke he took three Alabama teams to Pasadena. And the worst he got out of it was two victories and a tie.

Wade told me of the Tar Heels yesterday when, after Duke's final workout, I followed him into the dressing room to tell him that I had placed $5 on Duke and wished him (and me) luck.

"Son, you didn't really bet $5 on us, did you?" he drawled sadly. "If you did, how many points did you get?"

"Fourteen," I answered, "but I don't believe I'll need a one of them."

"I'm sorry you did that," he said. "It's a shame for you and get your money taken away from you. You would have gotten 50 points, anyway. Carolina's that good, son."

I challenged this 50 point business, pointing out that in all the years he had been coaching, no team had ever beaten him as much as four touchdowns.

"Well, maybe I was exaggerating a little bit when I said I thought they'd beat us 50 points. That's a lot of points. But get this straight—and I'm not trying to kid you—Carolina is going to beat us, and they're going to beat us right badly. We've got a pretty good team, yes; but Snaveley's got a great one."

"As good as your 1930 Alabama team?" I asked, knowing that Wade considered that one about tops.

"Every bit as good. And every bit as good as the other two Alabama ones I went West with. The team we play tomorrow is two touchdowns better than the Alabama team which kicked Stanford around last year."

"If they lick us—and I don't see how anything but a plain miracle can prevent it—and are asked to the Rose Bowl, those Carolinians will see as strong and smart a team as ever played out there. I hear Princeton is a whale of a team this season. Well, if Carolina played 'em tomorrow, I'd bet everything I own they'd lick the Tigers."

Unwilling to admit that my $5 was doomed, I told Wade that after the game was over and he had won, I planned to come down and get a statement from him.

"I'll save you the trip down from the press box," he said with a laugh, "by giving it to you now. If we win, just go ahead and quote Wallace Wade as saying: 'I'm damned surprised.'"

Had a dozen times he reeled off runs of from 10 to 30 yards, and added a noteworthy kicking and passing performance for good measure. For every four yards Cheshire made packing the ball, the 145 pound five-foot, three-inch Hawaiian, clipped off seven.

But where Kaukukui had the better of the Bruin star in ball-carrying honors, the heavier California team beat the Roaring Rainbows at their own game—through the air. The Bruins gained 160 yards with their aerial attack to 83 for Hawaii and piled up 204 yards from scrimmage to 154 for the invaders, defeated last Saturday by Denver university.

Cheshire topped a bright night's work with a 30-yard gallop to a touchdown for U. C. L. A.'s final score in the fourth quarter.

The Bruins gained an early lead with swift aerial thrusts. The first touchdown came in the first quarter on a pass from Don Ferguson to "Tex" Harris. They repeated in the second period when Billy Bob Williams passed to Fred Funk.

Bill Spaulding Speaker at Don Fete Dec. 9

"Westwood Will" Spaulding, head coach of the U. C. L. A. Bruins, will be the principal speaker when the Associated Students of Santa Ana junior college banquet the Don football squad Monday night, Dec. 9.

An annual event, the fete will be held at the Green Cat cafe.

Coach Spaulding, known as the "man who stopped Red Grange" when he was at the University of Minnesota, has been handling the Bruins since 1925. The present season at Westwood has been his most successful, only California and Southern Methodists holding victories over the Battling Bruins.

BILL SPAULDING

Spaulding has definitely assured junior college student officials he'll be here for the big banquet. He is known as a brilliant after-dinner speaker.

DONS TO PLAY RUGBY, BATTLE U. S. C. TROJANS

Santa Ana junior college will have a rugby team this winter if Coach Al Reboin is able to interest enough Dons in the venture.

Reboin, who was a regular member of the University of Southern California team that performed here last February, has been sounding out jaysee athletes in an attempt to ascertain how great the interest is in the game. If enough enthusiasm is shown, rugby will make its appearance in January, he said.

Games with three major teams have been lined up for the embryonic Don rugbyists. Reboin has tentatively scheduled the Bruins, S. C. Varsity, Pasadena and Hollywood English clubs. The latter two are independent organizations made up mostly of former stars who played in England where the game had its origination.

Santa Ana would be the first junior college to adopt rugby on a major scale in Southern California. Other schools have experimented with it as a substitute to spring football but have not played outside games. Two years ago Coach Bill Cook attempted to replace spring football by rugby in an attempt to entice more men to report but the trial failed.

ISLANDER'S 101-YD. RUN IS TO NO AVAIL

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(UP)—A fleet-footed, pint-sized halfback whose brilliance remained undimmed either by comparison to U. C. L. A.'s All-America candidate, "Chuck" Cheshire, or by his team's 19 to 6 defeat by the Bruins gave Southern California fans a new subject to talk about today.

Fifteen thousand spectators saw the gentleman in question, Tommy Kaukukui, outgame and outgain the brilliant Cheshire, and climax a truly great gridiron performance with a 101-yard run for the only touchdown scored by the University of Hawaii in an intercollegiate football game here last night.

Had a dozen times he reeled off runs of from 10 to 30 yards, and added a noteworthy kicking and passing performance for good measure. For every four yards Cheshire made packing the ball, the 145 pound five-foot, three-inch Hawaiian, clipped off seven.

But where Kaukukui had the better of the Bruin star in ball-carrying honors, the heavier California team beat the Roaring Rainbows at their own game—through the air. The Bruins gained 160 yards with their aerial attack to 83 for Hawaii and piled up 204 yards from scrimmage to 154 for the invaders, defeated last Saturday by Denver university.

Cheshire topped a bright night's work with a 30-yard gallop to a touchdown for U. C. L. A.'s final score in the fourth quarter.

The Bruins gained an early lead with swift aerial thrusts. The first touchdown came in the first quarter on a pass from Don Ferguson to "Tex" Harris. They repeated in the second period when Billy Bob Williams passed to Fred Funk.

Bengals Beat Citrus; Next Contests Decide

EASTERN JAYSEE CONFERENCE

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Riverside	4	0	1.000
Santa Ana	3	0	.750
Citrus	2	1	.667
Chaffey	1	2	.333
San Bernardino	1	2	.333
Fullerton	1	2	.333
Pomona	1	2	.333

Last night's results: Riverside 6, Citrus 0. Santa Ana 26, Pomona 6. Fullerton 13, Whittier 9 (Non-conference). San Bernardino-Chaffey play today.

Santa Ana jaysee today clung desperately to the faint hope of a tie for the Eastern conference football championship as a result of its smashing victory over Pomona last night and Riverside's 6-0 triumph over Citrus' cracking Owls.

It all depends on the outcome of the next cluster of league games—scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28.

On that afternoon, Santa Ana meets its traditional rival, Fullerton, at the Municipal Bowl here. Riverside battles its most dreaded opponent, Chaffey's inconsistent Panthers. Citrus goes to Pomona.

The Riverside-Chaffey skirmish probably will settle the hash of all concerned, although today's duel between San Bernardino and Chaffey also figures in the involved reckoning.

A three-way tie as well as a four-way deadlock for the championship is possible, depending on the result of the San Bernardino-Chaffey conflict. If Chaffey wins, it too can tie for the bunting. If San Bernardino beats Chaffey the Panthers are out of the running.

Chaffey must turn back Riverside for any of the others to have a chance. If Riverside wins or ties the Bengals are "in". But if Chaffey, Santa Ana and Citrus all win the three will be deadlocked with four wins against two defeats.

Riverside completely outclassed Citrus at Riverside last night, rolling up 20 first downs and 313 yards to the Owls' 4 first downs and 64 yards. Coach Jesse Mortensen's "shock troops" punched over the only touchdown in the first quarter on a sustained drive of 60 yards. Quarterback Howard Mueda going over from the two-yard line. Riverside was inside Citrus' 10-yard line three other times to no avail.

New Wrestling Aces On Monday's Card

Promoter Sam Sampson, of the Orange County Athletic club, today completed his entire supporting card for Monday night's wrestling program when "Wee Willie" Davis meets Casey Columbo in a best two-out-of-three falls return match.

Sampson signed Al Baffert, French-Canadian; Sun Jennings, full-blooded Oklahoma Indian, and the wild Turk, Mehmet Yousoff. Jennings will meet Dick Davis, court, one of the foremost heavyweight roughers in the country; Baffert will test the unknown Masked Marvel and Yousoff faces Casey Columbo, Orange county favorite who returns here after three months' absence.

Neither Jennings, Davis nor Yousoff has ever appeared in the local ring. A rematch between Ad Herman and Danny Daniels completes Sampson's "five star" program.

SAINT 'BEES' LOSE AT SOUTH PASADENA

Coach Clyde Cook's Santa Ana high school Class B. gridsters closed their season yesterday with another defeat at the hands of the South Pasadena midgets, 26-0. The contest was doubly disastrous in that Jim Dudley, a Santa Ana substitute lineman, suffered a broken arm.

The "Little Saints" started the contest by driving down to within sight of the Pasadena goal. From this point they lost the ball to their opponents, who, on an end-around play scored in the first quarter. The conversion for the extra point was run over.

Again in the second stanza, South Pasadena scored. By a series of power plays, they went over for another tally. In the last period the Saints permitted two more tallies. By running through tackle, the hosts scored their first six points of the last quarter. The pass for conversion was good. In the last three minutes of play, the Pasadena scored their final score.

Santa Ana's lineup: Mitsuru Nitta, left end; Joe Standifer, left tackle; Joe Ortega, left guard; Frank Was, center; Harry Harvey, right guard; Leon Kaplan, right tackle; Charley Sawyer, right end; Paul Pagengogor, quarterback; Herschel Whitney, left half; Harold Jessee, right half, and Lytle Boyle, full back.

Scheffer said he would "welcome an invitation to bring his team to Anaheim in 1936" if the proposed park is available by then.

Although Scheffer did not say what other plans the Beavers had for next spring's camp, from other sources it was learned they are likely to return to Ventura.

Houghton Park To Play Brea's Nine

Brea takes on the powerful Houghton Park baseball team at Brea Sunday. Either Paul Holloway or Boisseau will pitch for Brea with "Bomo" Koral catching.

Pomona's Red Raiders truly turned red today in rueful retrospection of what happened in the Municipal bowl last night when a devastating Don eleven, failing to play the perfect host, ran up a 26-0 victory in an Eastern Jaysee conference game.

Although holding Santa Ana to six points in the first half, Coach Roy Rigels' invaders were too inexperienced and lacked sufficient manpower to keep Coach Bill Cook's gang in check long. Following the half-time recess the Dons rolled out their implements of war to go on the biggest scoring spree seen in the Bowl since the Riverside game.

There was nothing spectacular about the way the Dons "went to town." With their off-tackle plays working well and the line charging hard and fast to open gaping holes in the Pomona forwards, Cook did not have to reach into his bag of magic for any of the hokus-pokus that Fullerton's scouts had come to behold.

Dons Have Wide Margin

Thirteen first downs to five for Pomona indicated Santa Ana's decisive superiority. The Dons amassed 296 yards from scrimmage against the Red Raiders' 114. Santa Ana rolled up 170 yards on runs, gained 126 on passes. Pomona earned 63 on running plays, 51 on passes.

John Lehnhardt, who before this week figured in the Don scoring plays only through his blocking at right half, made his debut as a ball-packer and proved to be the outstanding ground gainer on the field. Starting the game at his regular halfback position, Lehn-hardt switched to quarter in the second period and from then on was constantly in Pomona's hair. The Garden Grove granadier made 54 yards from scrimmage, scored one touchdown, kicked one conversion, and tossed a pass to Al Lamb for another Don score. Ray Sides, diminutive quarter, was second high in ground gaining with 41, collected mostly through a 33-yard jaunt on the first time he had ever carried the leather in a college contest.

The Don's four touchdowns and two conversions came in the following order:

(1) Bruce Harnois, petite quarter, gathered in a Pomona punt on his own 45 and scooted to the Raiders' 34 late in the second period. With Lehnhardt carrying the mail 9 out of 10 times the Dons marched 34 yards to a touchdown. Lehnhardt going over from the one-yard

The GOLDEN FEATHER by Robert Bruce

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN delays her answer when BOBBY WALLACE asks her to marry him. At The Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS whose business connection with Bobby is a mystery.

JEAN agrees to a secret engagement with Sandy. The bank of which her father is president is in trouble. Jean goes to see Sandy who has been injured. He and the Lawless find himself a prisoner. The whole party leaves the farm. They stop at a deserted old house and Jean tries to escape. A guard stops her.

Meanwhile Larry has discovered Jean is with the robbers. His men continue their search. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

When Larry Glenn arrived in Portsmouth he went at once to police headquarters, where he found Detective Sergeant Mike Hagan talking with a broad-shouldered, swarthy chap whom he introduced as Sergeant Doyle, of the Portsmouth force.

"Tell us the story again," said Mike. "I been giving it to Doyle here, as I remember it, but I may have left out something."

Larry outlined the situation in detail, telling how the Jackson gangsters had been traced to the Engle farm, outside of Middletown, and how a mysterious telephone call had announced that they were going to French Pete's.

"Have you any kind of a notion where or what French Pete's might be?" asked Larry. "The call came from Portsmouth, so I'm assuming it might be somewhere in this neighborhood. Ever hear the name before?"

Doyle slowly shook his head. "I wouldn't say I never heard the name," he said. "It sounds sort of familiar, somehow. . . . But I'll be honest if I can place it." He was silent for a moment, frowning; then he shook his head again. "I can't help feeling I ought to remember," he said. "But I don't."

"There's just a chance," said Larry. "That we might get a lead from Washington. Before we left Dover I called the Division of Investigation and asked them to see if they had anything on it. They're to call me here, tonight, if they have. But it's a slim chance—awfully slim."

He said silent for a time; then the plain-clothes man who had been sent to the bus station from which the call had been made came in to report that a careful check there had failed to disclose any information whatever about the fugitives.

"I didn't expect it would," said Larry glumly. "How's anybody in a place like that going to remember who went to the pay-station booth to make a phone call? You've got one chance in a thousand."

The desk telephone buzzed and sounded, and Doyle answered. He picked up the receiver to Larry with the remark, "For you—Washington."

Larry took the phone and held a monosyllabic conversation. At last he hung up and turned to Doyle and Hagan.

"Well, for what it's worth—which isn't much—here's all the Washington files have got," he said. "They've checked their list of gangster aliases and they have one French Pete listed. He was a booze racketeer, back in prohibition days. Used to run whisky from Detroit down through the middle-west. Both Portsmouth and Dover were on his route, apparently."

"But he was shot to death by rival gangsters back in 1928. So that's that."

Mike Hagan suddenly banged the desk with his fist. "Hey—I remember, now," he said. "That guy—listen, Larry, maybe there's a lead in this, after all. Back about 1925 he was pulled in for murdering a village marshal who stopped his truck in some little town here in New Hampshire. And Don Montague, of Dover, was his lawyer. Montague came down and got him off. I don't remember the details, except that there was supposed to be something funny about it. Montague was supposed to've got to the local prosecutor, or something."

Doyle's face lit up with eagerness. "Sure, I remember, too," he said. "It WAS a funny deal. The gossip was that Montague took this bird they called French Pete for about everything he had in the way of a fee."

He paused, frowning in his effort to remember. "I got it," he said at last. "This fellow French Pete—his real name was Rubidoux. He used to have a sort of resort on a little lake, over in Lyeomington county, before he got into the booze-running racket. Anyhow, he'd held onto it, and the talk was that Montague made him sign it over to him as part of his fee."

"Where is it?" asked Larry quickly. "I never knew, exactly," said Doyle. "I bet old Tom Thornton would know, though. He's been on the force for 25 years, and he never forgot anything in his life."

He opened a door into another room and bawled, "Hey, Thornton—come in here a second, will you?" A gray-haired, mild-looking detective came in and faced them inquiringly.

"Remember that bird Rubidoux, who used to have some sort of a resort on a little lake over in Lyeomington?" asked Doyle.

Thornton nodded.

"Where was it, exactly?" asked Larry. "Well," said Thornton, "it used to be the country home of some rich man from Dover. Later it was a sort of country club. Then Rubidoux got it. Anyhow, it's tucked 'way off in the woods, about two-three miles north of the main highway—U. S. 129—around 10 miles east of here, or such a matter."

"Could you take us to it?" asked Larry. Thornton pondered, then nodded. "I think I could," he said. "They've re-located one or two of the roads in there, but I think I could find it."

Larry got up. "Then let's go," he said. "It may be a bum steer—but it's all the steer we've got. Take me in and let me talk to your chief, will you?"

So Larry went in to talk with the Portsmouth chief of police, while Tony LaRocco, at his instruction, hurried to telephone the Lyeomington county sheriff; and both of these officials promised full co-operation, to the extent of their ability.

An hour later three police cars drew to a halt at the concrete bridge that marked the county line. In them were Larry Glenn, three other federal agents, Mike Hagan, and the Portsmouth chief of police with half a dozen of his best men—all heavily armed. Beyond the bridge waited another car, with the Lyeomington county sheriff and four deputies carrying riot guns. The cars stopped and Larry and the Portsmouth chief held a brief consultation with the sheriff; then they all started off again, with Thornton sitting beside Larry in the leading car to point out the route.

Twice they made wrong turnings. As Thornton said, some of the roads in this part of the county had been re-located in recent years; once they followed an excitable road that petered out, at last, in somebody's farm yard, and a little later they found themselves pulling up in front of a deserted country schoolhouse, with tree trunks croaking derisively in the surrounding grove.

But at last Thornton held up his hand as a signal at a crossroads, and confidently told the driver to turn to the left.

"I've got it now," he said. "We take this road for about a mile, or a little less, and then we turn left on a little lane that goes into the woods."

They proceeded along the dirt road in the direction the detective had indicated. It was dark, now, and their lamps cast long beams of light down the peaceful roadway ahead of them; and the glare suddenly reminded Larry that there was no sense in making their arrival too conspicuous.

At his direction, therefore, they drove past the place where the lane

PROGRAM HELD BY P. T. A. OF TUSTIN SCHOOL

TUSTIN, Nov. 16.—A symposium on "Educational Opportunities of Health" featured the regular meeting of the Tustin Grammar School P. T. A. held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the kindergarten room, with the president, Mrs. Robert C. Korff, presiding.

Upon motion of Mrs. Frank Greenwood and unanimously carried, it was voted that the grammar school association and high school association present a letter of membership to Principal J. W. Means of the high school.

BOOK REVIEWS

BY MARY BURKE KING

Hands, by Charles G. Norris, published by Farrar and Rinehart. Charles Norris wrote "Salt" to inspire people to think about education. "Seeds" to make them think about birth control. "Broad" to direct attention to women in business. In "Hands" he has written a family story with the propaganda purpose of suggesting a way out for puzzled American youth. He puts the suggestion in the mouth of a professor who figures in the story and advises the young man of the case, "Miles." . . . there is no room in the United States today for the young man and woman who have acquired only a smattering of culture and education. Half our colleges should be emptied, half our students sent to the fields and factories. . . . Miles, my boy, this nation was founded by pioneers; it was expanded by pioneers; developed by pioneers. . . . A nation of pioneers is a great nation. . . . It's time for us to turn to pioneering again. How! Oh, by acquiring a new concept of life, a new valuation of what is and is not essential to comfort, by creating a new wealth. The resources of this country haven't been scratched. . . . Work! That's our salvation. Told! That will set us on the right road again. A lot of us poor benighted Americans have forgotten how to sweat! I am reminded in reading Mr. Norris' solution of the book "Now in November." There is a picture of tollers but all the will, all the determination to toll didn't seem to solve the problem. . . . But one does not have to go back to "Now in November." Nathan Asch's "Valley People" is another picture of tollers on the soil who didn't solve many problems. . . . There are good characterizations in "Hands." The setting is San Francisco and the scope covers four generations though the emphasis is placed on the cycle of three, a carpenter, his son who went to the Klondike and got rich, who lived well, committed suicide when he lost everything in a 1923 crash, and his son Miles carefully educated, rich man's son until the crash, when then he is faced with the puzzle which is before so many young men today, even though they have not been so rich nor had so much education. The background is carefully done. One reviewer has said that it is the best novel Charles Norris has written.

God Among the Germans, by Paul Douglass, published by the University of Pennsylvania Press. "The first great struggle of ideologies," writes this author, within the folk state of Adolf Hitler has come between a section of the Church of Jesus Christ and the National Socialist Government. The controversy has brought to the attention of the world streams of new scripture and the life of the humble carpenter of Galilee. . . . Anyone who is trying to understand what is happening in Germany today should read this book. Its subject matter is the important one of the religious attitude of the people, most particularly of the leaders of the church, everywhere. It probably has the advantage of making the readers better informed of this aspect of German events than a large percentage of the people living in Germany are. The book, as it quotes from the leaders of the National Socialist party as well as the various church groups and the youth does not lack in examples of rationalization. It is not dramatic reading but it is the story of a bitter struggle going on in Hitler's Germany which doesn't make the front page of the newspapers and yet is important. . . . We have heard strange rumors about the new Bible in Germany, about new gods, about reputations of Christ. "God among the Germans" saves us from errors of misunderstanding regarding what is actually happening along this line. It should not be overlooked by anyone who wants to understand, though not necessarily condone the leaders in Germany today. . . . The Valley, by Nathan Asch, published by The MacMillan Co. It is not strange that in reading this book, "The Valley," one is reminded of "Valley People" by Frances Marion. One valley is in the Berkshire mountains, the other is somewhere in California, and stories of the inhabitants of the two valleys are as diverse as the two valleys. "Valley People" had some quite grim stories and the emphasis was on the people. "The Valley" nature plays a large part in the lives of the people. Many of these stories, too, are grim.

Just as in Frances Marion's book there is a linking together of the stories by the writer so there is in this book. When people talk about "back to the soil" movements we just never will forget these two books. Such a future is too horrible to contemplate. The farmers in "The Valley" have slowly been disintegrating. Will someone give us a little sweetness and light on the subject? Why should the story writers go so sour on the old farm and the people of the rural valleys just when we need some illusions about the honey-suckle and lilacs and the friendly animals and the truth about these people is somewhere in between a roseate glow and this grim disintegration. The Circus of Dr. Lao by Charles G. Finney, published by the Viking Company.

"The Circus of Dr. Lao" is a brilliant feat of imagination and haled as a tonic for jaded readers. Dr. Lao is a Chinaman who brings a circus, a small but select circus, to an arid Arizona village. The circus is made up of mythological animals and the description of those weird beasts as described in erudite style by Dr. Lao in the humdrum setting is laughing many people a lot of fun right now. It is not to everyone's taste. It is even possible that some people will find it silly but they may have reached the proper point of literary sophistication, though I wouldn't say for sure that was the reason they didn't like the book. . . . These lovely poems about Orange county are by Anne Zuker. . . . I GIVE THANKS In the summer I give thanks For sunlight; For sand warm beneath my bare feet; For sand gleaming white, Running down To the blue delight of the sea. For fresh winds blowing, Billowing, drumming taunt in white sails. And the tang of salt on my lips; Nights dark save for the star-patterned sky. And the trail of phosphorescence In the wake of a swiftly moving boat. . . . But in winter I give thanks For other things, Beautiful music and pictures in which Loveliness has been garnered From every corner of the earth; For shop windows Rife with color, Any rosy children playing in the park; For the towering cathedral Monotyped in black and silver By the moon. For exquisitely wrought birches Against the bleak river; For the city magic-pinnacled In snow. I give thanks For storm without And warmth within. —The New York Times.

THE PERILED SYCAMORES Night after storm. Coyotes bay by the moon. Lanterned in branches of the sycamores, Which cling, a ghostly Amazon platoon. With high-tossed arms, upon the freshest shores. The winter rain and melting mountain snow Have changed the calm and idling summer stream To a wild torrent with an overflow. That cuts the bank as surely as a ream. . . . The voiceless sycamores, leaf lorn and bare, Stand on the brink and feel the water creep. Eroding rain-drenched soil and feel it tare Their vital clinging roots. They strive to keep Scant lodgement in the earth, with stalwart hope That floods recede from their emperiled slope. —North American Review.

"VIRGINIAN" TO SHOW AT STATE SUNDAY

A program that combines a romantic drama of the outdoors, and a story portraying the thrills, laughter, grief and romance of childhood opens at Walker's State theater Sunday for a three day run. The films are "The Virginian" with Gary Cooper, "The Virginian" with Mary Brian, Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen and Walter Huston in the leading roles, and "Dinky," starring Jackie Cooper.

Cooper has the title role in the outdoor picture, with Arlen as a roving cowboy and close pal, both of them in love with Miss Brian, a school teacher. The story opens as Cooper meets Arlen when he drives a herd of cattle into Medicine Bow, Wyoming in 1880. Walter Huston is cast as the "bad man" of the district whose cohorts are cattle rustlers. Plenty of fast action results as the opposing forces clash.

The story of "Dinky" is that of a lad whose widowed mother, Mary Astor, sends him to a military academy which is located adjacent to an orphanage, in which he is eventually an inmate, when his mother is framed and sent to prison. His special chum is Jimmy Butler and Richard Quenne is the juvenile villain. Others in the cast include Roger Pryor and Henry Armetta. A thrilling rescue in a fire scene and action of the football field are highlights of the film.

The short subject which completes the bill is a musical specialty, "Melody Magic."

Many Stars In Musical Billed Here

In the new spectacular musical film, "Thanks a Million," scheduled to open at the Broadway theater on Sunday, November 24, there are a dozen great stars, recruited from screen, stage and radio and each one playing a real role in a real story, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Will Dick Powell and Ann Dvorak heading the cast in the romantic leads, "Thanks a Million" presents Fred Allen, Patsy Kelly, Paul Whiteman and his band with Ramona, Rubenoff and his violin, Raymond Walburn and the Yacht Club Boys.

The picture utilizes song, comedy and dance in following the absurd adventures of the tanktown show troupe headed by Fred Allen, a sour-visaged master of ceremonies.

The romantic feeling is strong between Powell and Miss Dvorak, while Allen and Patsy Kelly indulge in a comedy variation of the same feeling.

The picture follows the troupe as they get involved in a wild adventure with politicians, and as Powell and Allen fight out their little differences as to whether or not he has to sing with the megaphone.

Although Powell and Miss Dvorak are separated for a while by the intrusion of Margaret Irving, the breach is healed when a strange turn of events finally brings him radio stardom.

TWO BIG PICTURES TO SHOW HERE SOON

Two outstanding films are scheduled to open in the near future at the Broadway theater, Manager Lester J. Fountain announced today.

"In Old Kentucky," the last film ever made by the beloved American writer and actor, Will Rogers, is booked to open at the Broadway on November 27.

The great drama, "Annie Oakley," with Barbara Stanwyck, Preston Foster, Melvin Douglas, Andy Olive and Pert Kelton heading the big cast, is billed for December 1.

MADCAPS HERE SUNDAY

The three Merry Madcaps, the Marx Brothers, come to town tomorrow in their latest and most hilarious film, "A Night at the Opera," declared to be the most riotous comedy ever made by the comedians. The new picture opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater.

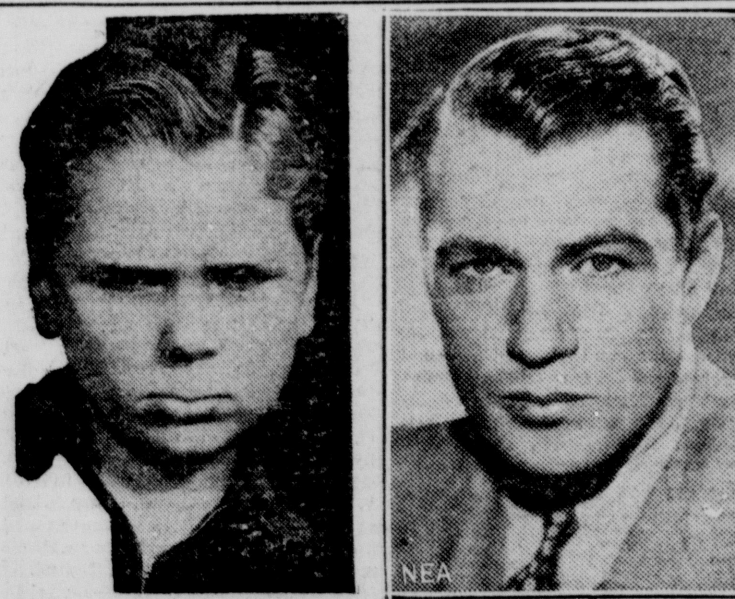

STARS IN ROMANCE

Gary Cooper and Ann Harding, below, are co-starring in Du Maurier's immortal romance, "Peter Ibbetson," which opens at the Broadway theater next Thursday with a second feature, "She Couldn't Take It," featuring George Raft and Joan Bennett in a sparkling comedy.

STARS OF STATE FEATURES

Jackie Cooper, left, is starred in "Dinky" and Gary Cooper, right, has the title role in "The Virginian" the two feature films on the program at Walker's State theater Sunday, Monday and Wednesday.

ROMANCE AND COMEDY OPENS ON THURSDAY

George Raft and Joan Bennett are starred in a brilliant comedy-romance, "She Couldn't Take It," which will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday with a second feature, George Du Maurier's immortal love classic, "Peter Ibbetson," starring Gary Cooper and Ann Harding in the leading roles, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Raft reverts to the gangster type of portrayal in "She Couldn't Take It," being seen as the ex-convict runner Ricard, repenting his sins in the federal penitentiary, where he meets Walter Connolly, millionaire financier serving time for tax-evasion. Connolly is impressed with the young felon's earnestness and determination to go straight, so when he dies he makes Raft executor of his estate and guardian of his petulant family.

What happens when Raft takes charge of the family and fortune, despite the vigorous protests of tempestuous Miss Bennett, her playboy brother, James Blakely, and her count and poet patronizing mother, Billie Burke, accounts for the vivid and amusing comedy. "Peter Ibbetson," having achieved fame as a novel a stage play and recently as an opera at the Metropolitan, now takes a prominent place in the screen world. Laid against the romantic background of the early Victorian period, the film tells one of the most beautiful love stories ever written, a love that survived everything.

An argument that leads to the accidental death of Miss Harding's husband, John Halliday, sends Cooper to jail for life. Building a dream world of their own, they spend their lives together in spiritual, if not in physical, union, by summoning themselves to the other's side in spiritual fantasy.

OPERATIC FILM AND COMEDY CLOSE RUN

Theatergoers in Santa Ana and vicinity will have the last opportunity to see an attractive double feature program with "Metropolitan" and "It's in the Air" when the bill closes tonight at the Broadway theater.

"Metropolitan" starring Lawrence Tibbett, is a musical production telling the story of backstage opera life and of a grand opera singer struggling for recognition. Comedy is interwoven into the picture, which features operatic favorites never before brought to the screen. The cast includes Virginia Bruce, Cesar Romero, Alice Brady, Luis Alberni and George Marion Jr.

Comedy, thrills and romance are combined in "It's in the Air," a picture which establishes Jack Benny as an ace screen comedian as well as being a popular radio star. He takes the part of a Broadway "chisler" who wins back the love of his wife and also wins national recognition for making a record-breaking stratosphere flight. Included in the cast are Una Merkel, Ted Healy, Nat Pendleton, Mary Carlisle, Harvey Stephens and Grant Mitchell.

The Marx brothers furnish the fun and three singing favorites of the Broadway stage furnish the songs in "A Night at the Opera," which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow for an engagement of four days. Previewed on the stage to test original comedy situations before a single scene was filmed, the new comedy is the most ambitious and riotously funny of any produced by the Marxes. There are 70 minutes of solid laughs in the latest hit of the Merry Madcaps. Groucho, Chico and Harpo decided that this new film should be a new departure in Marx brothers' comedy, and according to advance notices, it is. It is chock full of romance, brilliant singing and original comedy.

The story is woven around two young, unknown opera singers Kitty Carlisle and Allan Jones, who are perfectly cast for their parts, and the antics of the Marxes in bringing them together.

From Italy, the action is transferred to an ocean liner and then to New York, where the Marx brothers go into grand opera with a bang and with most unique consequences. In the notable cast are Walter King, who has a fine singing role, Siegfried Rumann, Margaret Dumont, Edward Keane and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

Specially selected short subjects on the program include a Silly Symphony cartoon in color, "Three Orphan Kittens"; a Pete Smith sports novelty, "Gymnastics"; a travelogue, "West Indies Cruise," and World News events.

"BLACK SHEEP" AND "CALIENTE" COMING TO WALKER'S STATE

The midweek bill at Walker's State theater next Wednesday and Thursday presents "In Caliente" a gay and dashing musical comedy-romance and "Black Sheep," a thrill-packed, fun-studded, adventure-mystery.

Edmund Lowe is cast as a professional ship gambler in "Black Sheep," who finds the cards stacked against him when he tries a game wherein everything he counts worth while is at stake. Claire Trevor has the part of an actress who aids Lowe to back a romance and save the life of Tom Brown as a misguided youth who is under the influence of Adrienne Ames in the role of a kleptomaniacal adventuress who is trying to smuggle valuable stolen gems. Eugene Pallett and Herbert Mundin provide many laughs.

Dolores Del Rio and Pat O'Brien have the leading roles in the musical comedy, Miss Del Rio as a charming dancer on vacation in the Mexican resort and O'Brien as a millionaire playboy who has been taken there by his pal, Edward Everett Horton, to keep him out of the clutches of a gold digger. Glenda Farrell, who follows the love of his wife and also wins national recognition for making a record-breaking stratosphere flight. Included in the cast are Una Merkel, Ted Healy, Nat Pendleton, Mary Carlisle, Harvey Stephens and Grant Mitchell.

County Office Group Has House-warming Surprise

Celebrating the recent move made by Miss Pauline Berry of the tax collector's office from her former home in Balboa to 1104 North Sycamore street, feminine members of the county office staff joined in a pleasant party Thursday night, as a surprise to Miss Berry.

Engineered by Miss Patricia Harris and Miss Alma McClain, party plans moved like clockwork, and secrecy was so well maintained by the conspirators that their arrival at Miss Berry's home was a great surprise to her than even the two ring-leaders had hoped. Plans included the selection of a gift that should express the interest of the group in the apartment, so all the guests had joined in selecting a lovely pillow in cut velvet and a small table lamp, which completed Miss Berry's surprise.

Bridge was played and dainty toilettries as prizes were presented. Miss Martha Whitson and Miss Lula Ott, for high and low scores. Sandwiches in wide variety were served with cake prepared by one of the guests to the surprise even of Miss Harris and Miss McClain.

In the party in addition to Miss Berry were the Misses Jess Barrett, Odessa Miller, Dorothy Elder, Alma Crowl, Estelle Bastian, Lula Ott, Laura Joiner, Martha Whitson, Blanche McDonald, "Pat" Harris, Alma McClain, Mesdames Fern Boomer, Florence Northcott, Hazel Leonard, Alice Schmitz, Olga Hall, Edna Dury, Susanne Fricker and Mina Haxton.

Shower For Mrs. Banks Follows Y. L. I. Meeting

Mrs. Albert Banks, who was Miss Rosemary Ashen preceding her marriage late in October, was honored at a bridal shower which came as a climaxing feature of a meeting of the Capistrano Y. L. I. Thursday night in Knights of Columbus hall.

Mrs. Betty Curran and Mrs. Olive Clark, two new members, were initiated during a meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. William Maag.

The Misses Mary Louise Dierker, Murva Dressler, Carmella Italiano and Mrs. Mary Musgrave were on the entertainment committee which had planned the party features. Mrs. Banks was showered with miscellaneous gifts which included many articles for use in kitchen and dining room. Refreshments were served at tables adorned with fruits and colorful autumn leaves.

Since the next regular meeting would fall on Thanksgiving night, the organization will not convene again until November 12 at 8 p. m. in the hall. At this time there will be a kid costume party.

Wives of Lions Club Members Assemble For Enjoyable Event

While members of Santa Ana Lions' club were holding a stag party Thursday night at Santa Ana Country club, their wives were enjoying an equally pleasant party in the home of Mrs. Robert Hockaday, 2025 North Broadway.

Forty Lieneses took part in events of the evening. Plans were worked out by a hostess committee composed of Mrs. Hockaday and Mesdames Joseph Peterson, Ray Adkinson, Carl Stein, William Wells, E. M. Sundquist, Logan Jackson, Harry Hanson, Lyle Anderson, Earl Rowland and Perry F. Schrock.

Gifts of pottery rewarded Mrs. Lyle Anderson and Mrs. Elliott Rowland for first and second high scores in contract bridge; Mrs. William Sebastian, high in court whist. Special awards were won by Mrs. Earl Rowland and Mrs. R. C. Harris.

Chrysanthemums and autumn berries were used in decorating at the refreshment hour, when a salad course was served at small tables.

Wedding Service Held This Afternoon in Pastor's Home

When Mrs. Mildred C. Grubb arrived from the east almost two years ago for a reunion with the father whom she had not seen since little girlhood, she little dreamed that Santa Ana held for her a romance quite as delightful as the welcome accorded by her father, Henry J. Schmidt, 901 East Washington avenue, and by Mrs. Schmidt. But this romance awaited her, and this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Grubb became the bride of Ray Thomas, well known garageman of this city.

It was in the home of the Rev. Ida L. Ewing, pastor of Cosmic Unity church, Brotherhood of Spiritual Philosophy, at 501 East Fourth street, that the quiet service was read by Mrs. Ewing. The bride wore a pretty afternoon frock in brown, with hat, gloves, shoes and wrap to harmonize, completing her effective appearance with a corsage of gardenias.

There were no attendants, and only a few of the closest relatives and friends were present. The new Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are to spend their honeymoon in Santa Barbara, and upon their return to Santa Ana will be temporarily located at 909 East Washington avenue until they decide upon their permanent home.

Mr. Thomas has lived in Santa Ana for a number of years and is widely known here. His bride has been a member of the Rankin Dry-goods store staff, employed in the ready-to-wear department.

Woman's Club Section Makes Plans For Christmas Meeting

To Mrs. E. A. Elwell of the Homecraft section, Santa Ana Woman's club, went the section prize this week, for introducing the greatest number of new household hints and novel articles to be fashioned by nimble fingers, to her sister clubwomen at the meeting with Mrs. J. R. McNeill, 321 East Walnut street.

This group observes a "penny march" at each meeting, proceeds of which are used by the succeeding hostess, to purchase the prize regularly awarded for these interesting homecraft suggestions. Mrs. Elwell's reward was an ivory pottery relish dish. Section members had brought contributions to the covered dish menu served at midday, devoting the remainder of the time to fancy work and to fashioning tally cards to be used at the Social section Christmas party next month.

Plans were made also for the section Christmas meeting to be held all day Wednesday, December 11, with covered dish luncheon at noon, a Christmas tree and exchange of 25-cent gifts. Mrs. Earl Ladd, leader, will be hostess in her home, 1325 Cypress street, and has asked for advance reservations for the affair.

Present this week were Mesdames McNeill, Ladd, Elwell, H. M. Kinslow, Rolfe Hays, E. D. Froeschle, J. D. Watkins, R. A. McMahon, J. G. Limbird, and one guest, Mrs. John Easton of Oconomowoc, Wis., a visitor in the Lindbergh home, 324 Halesworth street.

Suggesting books suitable to be read by very young children, Miss Mary Bowyer, children's librarian at Santa Ana Public Library, was speaker Wednesday evening at a meeting of Ebell Child Study section in the home of Mrs. George Hayden, 2224 Greenleaf street.

Hostesses were Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. E. L. Russell and Mrs. Kenneth Conner, who served dessert to precede the program. Ebell Second Household Economics section members are still smiling over recollections of their successful silver anniversary party this week, and recalling the quantity charming costumes of a quarter century ago—and longer—which the occasion called forth, but among their happiest recollections of the occasion, is that of the exquisite workmanship on a "trousseau" "nightie" of the period, offered for display by Mrs. Robert G. Co-hostesses Present Bridge Breakfast Of Much Charm Deviating from the customary luncheons and teas, Mrs. Sam W. Nau and Mrs. Angus J. Cruickshank chose a bridge breakfast as a means of entertaining a group of congenial friends, who yesterday enjoyed motoring to Our Village for the hospitality, staged in Laguna Beach hotel.

Quantities of the season's flowers were at the command of the hostesses for decorative purposes, and in those selected, the tawny bronze and rust shades were combined with golden yellow most effectively, not only to grave the breakfast tables, but to enhance the beauty of the sun parlor and dining room, with their unexampled views of the sun-dappled sea.

Devotees of contract were assembled in the sun parlor at the close of the breakfast course, while those still firm in their allegiance to auction bridge, found places at tables in the dining room. Prizes, enhanced by the autumnal shades of their wrappings and ribbons, were awarded Mrs. Richard Emison and Mrs. B. H. Sharpless in the contract group, and to Mrs. Alice Harris of the auction players.

Party In Bruns Home Compliments Bride Of This Month

Miscellaneous bridal gifts were showered on Mrs. John Edward Smith (Dorothy E. Kloess) Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Sam Jeranian of this city and her sister, Mrs. John E. Bruns, joined as hostesses in the latter's home on Irvine boulevard.

Bridge was played with Mrs. C. L. Neuschwander and Mrs. Sue Henry rewarded with pottery gifts for scoring first and second high. Chrysanthemums brightened tables at the tea hour, when the hostesses served a dessert course. The new Mrs. Smith was asked to lead the way to the dining room, where shower gifts were piled high on the table. The Smith-Kloess wedding took place early this month.

Invited to share the event with Mrs. Jeranian and Mrs. Bruns were the honoree, Mrs. Smith, and her mother, Mrs. Roland A. Kloess, with Mesdames B. E. Dawson, Walter Wright, Max Gowdy, Sue Henry, Elizabeth Robinson, T. S. Hunter, B. L. Barnett, H. G. Lyman, Carolyn Dennis, Charles Ryan, Jack Willey, R. N. Wimbush, Asa Hoffman, E. R. Roelun, William Sylvester, A. W. Getchel, George Shippe, H. T. Foust, C. L. Neuschwander, Ray Wyckoff, Al Adair, Amanda Holmes, Jessie Overton, Harry Roberts and the Misses Elizabeth Rechin and Eunice Hoffman.

Miss Violet Johnson Inspires Bridal Showers

Following closely upon the announcement made little more than a week ago of the betrothal of Miss Violet Johnson to Wayne Bartholomew was the commencement of a succession of parties, the latest of which was given last night in compliment to the bride-elect. Miss Alberta Sanford was hostess, entertaining in the home of her aunt, Mrs. O. L. Jacobs, 121 East Edinger street.

All appointments for the evening conformed to a rainbow theme evidenced by the many bouquets of flowers arranged throughout the rooms. Hearts proved an enjoyable diversion in which Mrs. Robert U. Smith and Mrs. Jacobs scored high and low.

Gifts in pottery were presented to Miss Johnson. Shower packages had been arranged to represent a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow.

Miss Sanford was assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. W. Sanford, and by Mrs. Jacobs in serving refreshments at small tables centered with rainbow-frilled doilies and composites of candies and nuts.

Present were Miss Johnson and her mother, Mrs. C. E. Johnson, and Mesdames C. C. Markwood, C. I. Bartholomew, George Berry, Kermit Maynard, John Taylor Jr., Robert U. Smith, A. W. Sanford, O. L. Jacobs, Allen Howell and the Misses La Dorca, Catherine, Evelyn Chandler, Betty Vorce, Norma Wilson, Evelyn Hinton, Carol Erskine and the hostess, Miss Sanford.

Trio Entertainers
Thursday evening a hostess trio composed of Miss Johnson's aunt, Mrs. C. C. Markwood, her grandmother, Mrs. A. R. Mitchell, and her mother, Mrs. C. E. Johnson, entertained in the latter's new home at 917 West Myrtle street.

Shower gifts of all varieties were arranged on a table attractively decorated with pink ribbons and cellophane, above which swung two snow-white wedding bells.

Informal games were enjoyed during the evening at the conclusion of which a refreshment course of open-faced sandwiches and persimmon pudding was served.

Guests with Miss Johnson included the Misses Carol Erskine, Ladice Barnes, Mesdames Eleanor Fish, Clyde Brown, Merle Hall, Lee Monroe, Arthur Beckman, Arden Conard, Rose Hall, Merle Irwin, Edna Erskine, C. I. Bartholomew, Glenn Copeland, William Zimmerman, Paul Brown and Adolph Gongol of Linwood.

Norton-Spengler Rites Are Accompanied by Sheer Beauty

Members of the P. H. Norton family circle, including Mr. and Mrs. Norton of 301 Edgewood Road, and many friends were in Pasadena last night for the wedding of Dr. G. Stanley Norton of the home, to Miss Evelyn R. Spengler, that charming Pasadena girl who has already won countless friends on her brief visits to this city. She is a niece of Miss Martha Spengler, 933 Elizabeth street, Pasadena.

The rites, formal and unusually beautiful, took place at 8 o'clock in Pasadena Westminster Presbyterian church, where they were conducted by the Rev. C. C. Sinclair. Raymond McPheters was at the organ for a program of bridal music which included in addition to the processional and recessional wedding marches, "Evening Star" (Wagner) and "At Dawning" (Cadmus). Miss Katherine Kuhn, a sorority sister of the bride, sang "All For You."

In Bridal Attire
Striking in her ivory satin gown, the bride, escorted to the altar by her uncle, Edward P. Spengler of San Francisco, was given in marriage by the aunt, Miss Martha Spengler, with whom she has made her home. Her gown, in princess mode with long, graceful sleeves, swept in a formal train beneath the exquisite lace of her veil, ivory by age to a tone slightly deeper than the satin it sheathed. The veil was the "something loaned," by the bride's close friend, Mrs. H. A. Wallace of Pasadena, who had it from her great-grandmother, its original wearer. It was arranged with a lace cap in halo effect, banded with a rope of pearls. Her flowers were immense white chrysanthemums in an arm cluster.

Pails, intermingled with white chrysanthemums and catharine candles, were given touches of delicate blue by spikes of delphinium as a background for the bridal party. Mr. Norton had assistance of his three brothers, Messrs. Miles Norton, best man, Arnold Norton and Francis Norton, ushers. Miss Virginia Langstaff, maid of honor, Miss Louise Earle and Miss Florence Shiley, bridesmaids, and little Marjorie Anna Barneval, flower girl, were all of Pasadena.

Miss Langstaff was gowned in powder blue crepe with fuchsia velvet sash accented by her arm cluster of chrysanthemums in the same shade. Her small hat matched the gown. Miss Earle wore a similar mode developed in medium blue crepe, and Miss Shiley in sapphire blue crepe. Their hats were of self-material, while sashes in fuchsia velvet and fuchsia chrysanthemums were identical. Little Miss Marjorie Anna wore a dainty frock of baby-blue lace, continuing the color theme.

Home Reception
Miss Martha Spengler received members of the family and intimate friends at a formal "at home" following the rites, using flowers in graceful arrangement to continue the blue and white color harmony of the bridal rites.

Dr. Norton and his bride took an early departure for a northern motor trip from which they will return to Santa Ana to make their home, and where Dr. Norton will resume his dental practice. He followed graduation from Santa Ana High school and Junior college with his professional course at U. S. C. College of Dentistry. Campus affiliations include Delta Sigma Delta, Blue Key, Trojan Knights and Alpha Tau Epsilon.

His bride, also a graduate of U. S. C. College of Dentistry, after completing Pasadena High school and J. C., was an affiliate of Psi Delta Tau, Adelphi and Fortnight club. She has been dental hygienist in the office of Dr. Henry F. Barneval, Pasadena, and Mrs. Barneval was hostess at her engagement announcement party.

Young People Form New A. A. U. W. Section

With the election of an executive board, organization plans for the Recent Graduates section of A. A. U. W. were brought rapidly toward completion at the dinner meeting Thursday night in the Green Cat cafe preceding the regular meeting of the association.

Assisting Miss (Gerardine) Cole, chairman appointed at the beginning of the season, will be Mrs. Lawrence Minge Evelyn Metzgar, vice-chairman; Miss Helen Bower, secretary; Mrs. Albert Paine (Josephine Ball), hospitality; Miss Margaret Glenn, membership; Mrs. John McCoy, study group; Mrs. Wendell Finley, program.

A meeting of the newly elected staff will be called next week. Miss Cole said, to commence at once on arrangements for the Christmas party to be given in compliment to mothers of the members.

A discussion of scientific consumer purchasing was given by Mrs. Robert Horn, in which she pointed out the difficulty the average buyer has to make objective decisions on quality.

Present were the Misses Marjorie Woods, Annabel McFadden, Mary Jewell, Margaret Glenn, Inez Hickman, Geraldine Cole, Mary Porter, Virginia Smith, Lillian Hurwitz; Mesdames John McCoy, Lawrence Minge, R. L. Tibbitts and Wendell Finley.

Bridge Playing Group Is Entertained by Mrs. Ballard

"The Friendly club" is the designation given their bridge organization by a little group of women who meet at frequent intervals for their favorite game, and who were entertained Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Mollie Ballard, East First street, Tustin.

Everyone commented upon the charm of the sunny were chrysanthemums which Mrs. Ballard used throughout her home, and which were especially effective in centering tables for the serving of refreshments.

Mrs. Charles E. Dixon and Mrs. Leland Ewbank made first and second high scores and received attractive prizes. Mrs. Dixon had been the last previous hostess entertaining the club, and Mrs. Ward S. Lindley is to be the next, receiving members in her home, 1024 South Main street.

Mrs. Ballard's guests were Mesdames Leland Ewbank, Ward S. Lindley, Charles E. Dixon, Harry Anthony, Eugene Oregon, all of this community, Miss Madeline Freed of Westwood; Mrs. Tony Clark of Southgate, and Mrs. Jack Rose of San Jose.

Add candied chopped fruits if wished.

Method of mixing: Run the fresh pork fat through the food chopper, cover with the 2 cups of boiling water, cool and add the fruit, walnuts, citron, molasses mixed with soda and the sugar. Sift flour, spices and baking powder and work into the liquid mixture. Add candied fruit if you like a very rich cake.

Oil and line small bread tins with heavy paper, putting between paper and pan bottom a layer of corn meal. Fill two-thirds full and bake in a 275 degree oven until a knife blade will come out clean. Cool in pans, then roll in waxed paper and store in a jar with a cut apple.

The contributor reports that this cake has been kept as long as six years and was still good enough to eat. Whatta cake!

Well, after a week of talking about good things to eat, I'm back at my old tricks, selling you on the idea of cutting down your intake to get rid of your bumps and too plump curves.

Have you a little roll of fat, or a curve or two you'd like to ditch? Well, here's how you can do it, quickly, safely, and delightfully. Send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask me to mail you a copy of our Safe and Sane Reducing Diet. On this diet you will lose after the first week, not less than one pound and probably three. Write for it today and be slim and pretty for Christmas.

Au revoir until Monday.

The Unitarian church, Bush and Eighth street. Julia N. Budlong, B. Th., minister. Junior Fellowship at 10; morning service at 11; subject, "Will We Pay the Price of Freedom?" "Is Freedom Worth Its Price?" This is the theme of the second of the three "Sermons in Accord With the Times" being given at the Unitarian church under the general title of "Will We Pay the Price of Freedom?" will be given tomorrow morning. Sinclair Lewis' new novel, "It Can't Happen Here," will be reviewed as a background for the address, "Are our civil liberties worth defending?" is the question in the back of the author's mind, as he sketches the imaginative consequences of a failure on the part of America's citizens to defend her democratic political institutions. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," quoted the minister, Rev. Julia N. Budlong, in discussing her theme, "There is nothing inherent in the soil, climate or people of the United States to prevent a reversion to anarchy or to tyranny. Only the grim and watchful determination of her citizens that liberty is worth fighting for, and needs fighting for, can guarantee a continuance of democratic forms of government. Do we want them to continue? Or would we prefer greater efficiency in government or greater equality or security in economic institutions?" These questions will be outlined in the sermon, and the answer of liberal religious leadership presented. The public is invited and copies of Walter Prichard Eaton's essay called "Free Speech" will be given to all who attend.

THE TWYMITES

The big toothbrush said, "Now, my friends, here's where our crazy dancing ends. We've entertained you, I am sure, so please do as we say."

"The small toothbrushes are all set to help you little youngsters get your teeth real clean. That is the proper way to start the day."

"You'll note six brushes dashed right out, so there is naught to fight about. A fine toothbrush for each of you. All of you follow me."

"The old sponge lady, bless her soul, was kind enough to leave her bowl. I'll fill it with fresh water from the well near yonder tree."

The bowl was picked up off the ground and, as the Twymites gathered 'round, the toothbrush dipped it in the well. "Now we're all set," it cried.

"Somebody squeeze the tube of paste, and don't let any go to waste, 'cause if you do, the tube is bound to run away and hide."

"Gee, I wish that's what it would do, although, of course, I know that you are really trying to help us," said wee Duncy, with a frown.

"I don't like scrubbing teeth one bit, but I suppose I must do it. You've been so kind, I haven't quite the heart to turn you down."

"I'm first," cried Scouty. "Form in line. I really think this stunt is fine." And then he scrubbed his teeth until they were a pearly white.

The big toothbrush then said, "Well, son, you see how easily it's done. The rest must do the same thing, now, ere I run out of sight."

And then the tube of paste said, "Gee, the Twymites were real kind to me. I got much better treatment here than any place I've been."

"I thought they'd squeeze out lots of paste and let a whole lot go to waste. I would have been real sad, because that would have made me thin."

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

BANQUET HALL OF THE ANCIENTS

MODERN guns, during the World War, cracked and weakened one of the most marvelous relics of ancient architecture, and now modern ingenuity is trying to rescue it from further destruction. It is the huge arch and wall at Ctesiphon, in Iraq, not far from Bagdad.

This is the largest unsupported brick arch in the world. It measures 84 feet in width. It covered the banquet hall of King Chosro II, its builder. Here the great kings of New Persia held their magnificent court.

During the war, the Turks hid their heavy guns underneath this structure and the resultant bombardment caused cracks in the wall. Now cement is being used to help preserve it.

The stamp below, showing this huge arch and wall, was one of the first issued by Iraq in 1923.

UNSEEMLY HASTE

We were really saddened yesterday at the unseemly haste, shown by the Board of Supervisors, in the appointment of a successor to the County Treasurer, who had passed away but a few hours before.

Indeed, his death was unknown to the county, as a whole, until considerable time after his successor had been appointed and qualified.

We observed this same haste in the appointment of a successor at the time of the death of Coroner Brown.

The public information concerning the death was coupled, as we recall, with the announcement of the new coroner.

The same speedy action was also carried on at the time of the resignation of the head of the welfare department some years ago.

To be sure, it evidences a very efficient executive group, which can so promptly select a successor. Unfortunately it also indicates there has been a contingent agreement upon the successors, actually before the death or the resignation of the incumbent.

While officers may be commended for remarkable foresight in such speedy activity, yet, to show some degree of reverence and regard for those who have gone, it certainly would be as well if they didn't evidence that they had already determined upon a line of action, in case of a peradventure.

When the amenities of life are entirely overlooked, if not destroyed, such as a degree of reverence for the deceased, it is so unseemly that it rather shocks many people.

Of course it avoids confusion and conflict of opinion in the selection, when the public does not know it and other candidates are not presented and have no opportunity to be presented.

To be sure, there is a great deal in unity and preventing division. Sometimes, however, we overdo things in the effort to have unity of a certain type. Such action smacks of, if it does not demonstrate, a very close political organization, consisting almost of a family affair.

There was no reason, in law, in ethics, or in the conduct of the office that should have prevented due respect, which certainly was not shown in this and other cases.

While it might have been embarrassing, to some of the board, to have had other names suggested and to have the public given an opportunity to give some degree of expression, yet they still could choose the same one they had agreed upon, who is personally highly qualified for the position.

There are some things that can be said for the confining of selections to smaller groups, to men who have been previously tried out in public office. It isn't possible to give offices to everybody, anyhow.

BANKERS "FEEL THEIR OATS"

Only two years ago in March, 1933, the bankers threw up their hands and gave a sigh of relief when they were permitted to close their doors. Here and there a feeble voice protested and murmured something about being able to continue the unequal battle, but his cries were stifled by his companions.

Yesterday, at the American Bankers' Association convention, they had so far recovered their composure as to signify their intention of fighting the "New Deal", and by that, of course, they mean all those reforms that may affect their financial welfare.

For a moment, we thought of saying "financial and moral welfare", but it is perhaps best left unsaid.

Contrasted with conditions that prevailed when nothing was saleable in 1932 and 1933, conditions today are vastly better and the financial condition of all banks is vastly improved.

Bonds are up many billions in value and can be sold today at prices that seemed beyond the hope of all financial men.

Money is willing to work for the lowest interest rate it has ever commanded in this country. If it were scared to death, like it was in 1932, it would still be hunting for the deepest hole it could find in which to hide.

Listed stocks alone are up by more than 20 billions and listed bonds by more than 7 1/2 billions, with first mortgages, backed by reasonable security, selling at face value instead of going begging for want of a buyer.

Whereas federal corporation income tax returns, covering operations for 1932, showed net losses of more than three and a half billion dollars, net profits of corporations, so far this year, are equal to one-third of the 1929 boom profits, and are higher than in 1934.

Bank deposits have increased amazingly since 1932; confidence in banks is perhaps as high as it ever was.

The doctor saved the patient, but the patient, far from feeling grateful, is getting to be of the opinion that the remedies applied were more severe than necessary, and besides now that it is entirely healthy, the banking group wants to exert its power once more.

It remains to be seen whether the public is willing to follow the bankers or whether they will retain their faith in the doctor and the cures that worked.

GOOD CHOICE

In the personality of the selection for County Treasurer, The Register believes that a good choice was made.

Mr. Stephenson is well known in the city and county and the people are well assured that the office will be conducted in a highly honorable and capable manner.

The Register desires to congratulate him on his selection and the county as well upon the character of service of which they will be assured.

EVIDENCE OF RETURNING PROSPERITY

The resumption of dividends on the part of corporations, and the declaration of extras, are the clearest evidence of the return of prosperity. Every week marks the resumption of dividends and this declaring of extras. This is not confined to any particular line of business, but it covers a wide enough range to indicate that the prosperity is general.

To illustrate, during the past week, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey declared an extra dividend of 25 cents per share in addition to the regular quarterly dividend. General Motors has raised its regular quarterly dividend from 25 to 50 cents, but has also distributed an extra of 50 cents.

International Nickel of Canada has raised its dividend from 20 to 25 cents. Loew's Inc. has increased its dividend to 50, International Shoe to 25, and Bendix Aviation resumes dividends of 25 after a cessation of dividends since April, 1932. Coca-Cola gives an extra of 25 cents, and splits its shares four for one.

All this proves that more business is being done and that corporations are working on the profit side. Everywhere there is hope and confidence.

Even the industrial and the financial groups which have been so terribly down are singing a new song of hope. They carp about the administration, but they cannot overlook the fact that things are coming fast. The New York Times business index last week was up to 91.3. This is an approach to normal.

RESTORATION OF THE MONARCHY IN GREECE

The recall of George II to the throne of Greece has been noted with some discouragement on the part of the friends of democracy. It appears to be a set-back for democracy.

The Athens correspondent of the New York Times reveals the inner secret for the change. It was the result of a coup d'etat by Field Marshal Kondylis of the Greek army.

A plebiscite was ordered by Kondylis to give it the appearance of popular support. The monarchists voted blue ballots, the republicans red ballots. The new cabinet took every precaution to down republican sympathies, and the republican chieftains ordered followers to abstain from voting.

The ballot favoring the return of the king was nothing more than a formality. It expressed no change of sentiment on the part of the people.

After the seizure of the government by Kondylis, there was nothing for the people to do but to submit. It may be, after all, that George II returns to a very unstable throne.

Seed Of Freedom Must Be Saved For The Future

The curse of compulsory conformity rests on dictatorship and savagery alike, and its penalty in both cases is stagnation.

In the externals of life and in the personal quality of individuals, cultivated Germany and savage New Guinea are as far apart as the poles. But in their intolerance of difference, Nazi totalitarianism and primitive Papuan tabu are identical. In this vital respect, dictatorship is not figuratively, but literally, a return to barbarism.

The savage lives under the dominion of changeless and immemorial custom. The one unpardonable crime is to be different. He must be born of the blood of the tribe and do every act exactly like every other tribesman. And life stands still, through the timeless aeons.

How shall the advanced peoples escape the same fate if they subject themselves to the like regime? They will not sink to the filth, the poverty and the cruelty of savagery. They will not gnaw bones in a foul cavern, nor scalp the wanderer from a neighboring village. They will wear clothes and live in houses and conduct themselves according to the usages of civilization. But the totalitarian state, because it will not permit men to differ, thereby forbids them to progress. It dooms them to immutability. This is the blight of dictatorship.

And because that blight has overspread so much of the earth, history has laid on the few remaining free peoples the task of conserving the right to differ. If freedom of thought and its expression, of judgment and of opposition perish from these few democracies, there will be no progenitors left for their subsequent rebirth on earth. The heritage of a hundred generations of struggle will have been thrown away. After that it will matter little whether we sink to savagery or submit to tyranny. It is the challenge of the ages that confronts us.

It's a Funny Business

It is a merry conceit which now attaches a couple of thousand dollars' worth of certified public accountants to the state books, charged with digging up the ingenious history of the various leaks, cuts and petty swindles by which our state jobholders have been sweetening their salaries.

While the investigation may possibly expose a few small fry whose resourcefulness has infringed the technicalities of the law, its chief product will be another amusing chapter in the long record of honest graft and it will win a sheepish merriment from the taxpayer who learns what he has been buying with his taxes. To remedy the wrong inherent in the system which breeds this graft, the state will have to go outside the realm of public accountability.

Due to the aimless growth and the haphazard structure of state government, the taxpayer is now paying for a huge total of what is now fashionably known as boondoggling. It has many hundreds of employees occupied chiefly in going through the motions—men whose jobs were given them for a reward, and who are naturally intent upon making the reward sweet and easy.

The only service an accountant can perform is to tell us exactly how much this political boondoggling costs, and how the cost breaks down—i.e., how much of it is plausible, how much is fancy, and how much is unaccountable and perhaps illegal.

If we act intelligently upon the basis of accountancy only, all that we can do is to reduce the per diem of the boondogger, thus theoretically cutting the unit cost of the state-produced boondogger. But when we get all through, we shall still be producing boondoggles and supporting boondoggers.

If we wish the state of California to remain in this line of business, the qualified accountant is worth whatever he charges—but the business itself will still warrant a sour laugh from the taxpayer.

Climbing Out Of The Hole

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

UNCLE SAM SHOULD WORRY
(Canada announces proudly that she has controlled the sea lion supply.)

No lion swimming in the sea
Has got the least allure for me;
Beyond a doubt the brute is brave
To ride upon the tossing wave.
But any fish that roams the tide
Can wander just as far and wide,
And many of them are endowed
With voices that are just as loud.
I can't see why Great Britain can Desire this dull amphibian.

Sea lions are no table treat.
In fact they are not fit to eat.
And though I possibly may err
Of not much value is their fur.
And no one with a mite of sense
Would value them at thirty pence.
So why should Mr. Bull maintain (Unless he's wabbling in the brain)
That he, John Bull, yes he alone,
These worse than worthless beasts should own?

So let him sail around the girth
Of this revolving, speeding earth,
To drive these ocean denizens
Ashore and put them up in pens,
For not a continental—
Will care our canny Uncle Sam.
The seals our Uncle needs he's got,
And while that's not an awful lot,
He's cornered all the furry breeds,
And these, dear friends, are all he needs.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Being the boss isn't easy. Persuading others to do a job right takes a lot more energy than doing it yourself.

Women aren't really taking men's jobs. How many men could say: "Now here is a perfectly precious little dress."

Why do Republican leaders think they must have a big man? They have often won without that kind.

Old-fashioned husband: "Here's a dollar to spend, my dear." Modern husband: "Gimme four-bits to get a haircut."

Why all this talk about the Italian soldier's modern weapons? There's nothing modern about a pick and shovel.

MOTHERS WHO DON'T OBJECT TO DAUGHTERS SMOKING ARE THE ONES WHO ACT HORRIFIED BY SHE CHEWS GUM.

It is poor workmanship that causes men to fail. Look at counterfeiters.

Superior races are the ones that ask Japan to please stop taking all of their markets.

Peace is that quiet state which people prefer till they see flags waving and hear bands playing.

AMERICANISM: (1) "My ship is in danger; steer it for me." (2) "The danger is over; let me steer."

It seems that Italians are using dum-dum bullets as well as dum-dum propaganda.

You can't cheat economic law. Where servants are paid $1 a week, they swipe enough to provide a living.

We like Roosevelt's motto, "It can be done." But he should add, "If you don't mind hooking your future to pay for it."

SPOILED BRAT: ANY KID SMART ENOUGH TO KNOW THAT PARENTS CAN BE CONTROLLED BY MEANS OF A LITTLE HATE-FULNESS.

A scientist tells us that birds are not guided by intelligence. We've noticed that about the stork.

Professional man: Anybody who can soak his employer according to his ability to pay.

It is easy to obtain peace of mind. Just decide that the imperfections of mankind are none of your business.

A G. O. P. leader says people who support Roosevelt hope to get something. Well, what animates a G. O. P. leader? CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "OLD GRADS ARE HELPING ME," SAID THE FRESHMAN. "BECAUSE I'M SO GOOD IN MATH."

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

A COMMUNIST COMPLIMENTS CAPITALISM

Lewis Corey, a convinced collectivist, has written a vastly interesting book on The Crisis of the Middle Class.

In it he pursues the thesis he advanced in his earlier book on The Decline of American Capitalism, that capitalism had ridden its crescendo and is now in diminishing, which, translated into everyday English, means that, in Mr. Corey's judgment, it is petering out.

While capitalism was on the make, however, Mr. Corey admits the following achievements to its credit:

- (1) It developed the forces of production to unprecedented heights, increasingly limiting scarcity and making potential abundance possible for all.
- (2) It vastly increased man's mastery of the nature and of himself.
- (3) It developed an increasing mass of well-being.
- (4) It made reason and scientific method part of the normal processes of the time.
- (5) It forwarded the ideals and practice of liberty, equality and democracy by asserting the right of the people to share in the fruits of progress.

(6) It redefined education as a means of mastering society and solving social problems and brought about an increasing participation of the masses in education.

(7) It set up the ideal of world peace, the ideal of all peoples trading peacefully.

(8) It created or helped greatly to create the idea of progress.

A pretty creditable record I should say!

We are in a phase of arrest following the disruptive aftermath of the World War. The old system is creaking at many joints. It is providing fertile soil for the seeds of the collectivist theorists who insist that it has seen its best days.

But these theorists fail to convince me. I cannot believe that capitalism, with this record admittedly by a convinced collectivist, a record so far beyond any record yet made by any alternative system, cannot and will not modernize itself and fulfill the promise of its youth.

THE INNER SPARK

It is possible for a child to go through school, become a high school student ready for training for his life work without finding the reason for his education, without discovering his motive power. He is one who says, "I'm going to college. I haven't decided yet what I am going to be, so I'm taking a general course."

That means a tragic waste. Most of the children who graduate from elementary and high school are intelligent above the majority. Most of them long for work that they feel to be their peculiar expression. But search they may they do not find it. Why is it that boys and girls have such a difficulty?

I think that it is mostly the fault of the schools. Grown people are harried by cares and anxieties. They cannot attend to what goes on in schools. Tradition settles heavily on institutions that are set apart from the life of the people as schools are set apart. There are schools that are teaching the same courses of study they used in the beginning of the Nineteenth century. Changing them meant trouble for somebody, and as long as trouble could be avoided why not avoid it? This is true all over the world.

Now teaching reading and writing and arithmetic with the elements of composition and a trace of history with a dash of geography is a rote task. It can be taken into the memory, checked with a passing mark, be considered an education in the beginning of the next step in the course and still leave the pupil precisely where he was when he started as far as the growth of personal power, personal purpose, self-will are concerned. The spark that sets them crackling into flaming life has not been set off. The creative self of the child has not been touched. Until that self is reached and set afire there is no worthy growth.

The basic subjects are essential. They must be taught so thoroughly that they become second nature to the pupil before he enters secondary school. But along with the fundamentals the other essential, the creative power of the pupil, must be released. You cannot teach creative force as you can teach tables and lists. This all-important force is released, not imposed. It is never imposed, never bestowed. It is innate in the pupil and is waiting for the touch that sets it free.

There must be provision for this release or the school does not function. Art, music, crafts, experiments, the enjoyment of dramatics, the feel of the orchestra as it sings ideas of unutterable beauty, the reverence that fills the soul in communication with the stars, the sea and the sky. Any—any—experience that touches the inner being should be offered by a school to its pupils in the hope of reaching that hidden spring which controls the creative spirit.

A child is a complex creature. He can leave his body on the school bench and take flight across the universe. His tongue may reply to you, but it was only his tongue. He was riding a winged steed, or scaling Everest, or sleeping on a lotus leaf. Before you can start the creative life in a child you must catch him. Is there enough bait in the course you are using?

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

Every Christmas from 1813 to 1931, the King of England was presented with "four and twenty woodcocks baked in a pie." The custom was begun by Lord Talbot and continued by all viceroys and governors general of Ireland. In 1932, Donald Uckley, governor general of the Irish Free State, failed to send the traditional pastry.

Tuberculosis causes nearly a billion dollars economic loss each year. Any one person's purchase of penny Christmas Seals is insignificant beside that figure. But the power of the penny lies in the fact that it provides the "ounce of prevention" that helps make cure unnecessary. Buy Christmas Seals and help fight tuberculosis.
